H. P. Cotton
Assistant Vice President, and head of the Norfolk and Western's Industrial Department was asked ....

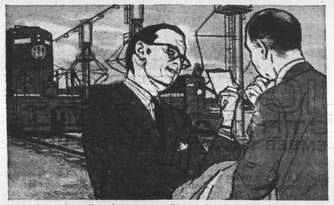
*"What Can A Community Do To Attract New Industries?"

"New industries mean new jobs, new prosperity for any community," says Mr. Cotton. "The first step in attracting new industries is to organize for action. Civic groups, local government, businessmen, all elements of the community should be brought together to support the program. Competition is intense.

"Next, study community assets and liabilities with emphasis on factors important to industry. Interview existing industries, and assist actively in solving any problems they may have. List natural resources, industrial resources, human resources, community services.

"Then analyze your findings. Decide how to correct your community's faults, how to sell its assets. Determine what industries are best suited to your area. (Here, the N&W, through its Fantus area studies now underway, can help.) Give resultant data to prospects or to anyone who can help bring in new plants.

"Carry out specific programs to make your community more attractive to industry. Support needed improvements . . . an industrial development corporation . . . clean-up, paint-up campaigns. Enlist newspaper, TV, radio support. Make speeches. Get everyone on the bandwagon.



"Work with railroad, state, utilities, local industries to help uncover prospects. Have everyone in town alert for leads on new industries. Watch magazines, newspapers, for hints of expansions. Send direct mail to logical prospects. Help small, promising local industries get started.

"Invite prospects to inspect the community and its plant sites. Don't use high-pressure selling. Give prospects facts and figures. Respect their confidence. Any community that follows these basic steps, wholeheartedly, is almost certain to attract new industries . . . create new jobs and new prosperity."

LETTER - WRITING WEEK ANNOUNCED

The 23rd annual Letter Writing Week will be celebrated in Evergreen, Va. during the week of October 2 to 8, it was announced today by Postmaster John K. Hamilton.

Postmaster Hamilton noted that there has been a revival of personal letter writing during the last few years. "A letter remains the most economical, lifongest lasting, and sincerest means of extending greetings, communicating social news, and exchanging ideas, "the Postmaster said.

During Letter Writing Week, Postmaster John K. Hamilton suggested that individuals write at least two letters: one to a friend or relative from whom you have not heard from in a long time, and the second as a reply to a friend or relative who recently wrote to you. He also urged correspondence to people in other countries as a means of promoting greater understanding among th people of different nations.

'61 CHEVY TRUCKS
WITH WORK-PROVED INDEPENDENT FRONT SUSPENSION!
Chevy's '61 fleet swings in with a ready-made reputation as the trucks that are worth more because they work more . . . the latest editions of the haulers that scrapped the I-beam axle and proved the important advantages of independent front suspension!
You'll find new models for '61—long-wheelbase 4-wheel drive units—and thoughtful refinements throughout the line. But the big news for '61 is nailed-down proof (based on owner reports) that Chevy's torsion-spring design is the best thing that's happened to trucks in decades!
With Chevy's independent front suspension and Sturdi-Bilt design, you cruise over trails where other trucks creep. You feel the difference in less wheel fight and vibration. You can see why drivers are happier, why loads are better protected and why the truck itself will stand up to thousands of miles of more work. That goes for any size Chevy, too—pickups, tilt cabs, tandems, all of them.
Check the latest specs with your Chevrolet dealer: capacity, power teams, options. Then, by all means, drive a '61. Once around the block and you'll never be satisfied with a front axle truck again!
